ISGN's Diamond LOS Enhanced with New Web Portal

New Origination Portal System makes the industry's most powerful and comprehensive product and pricing engine accessible to loan officers and brokers

-Announcement reflects ISGN's increased focus on product enhancements in 2009-

BENSALEM, PA — March 13, 2009 — ISGN Corporation, the leading global mortgage solutions company providing an end-to-end spectrum of mortgage technology products, advisory services and platform-based knowledge process outsourcing, announces the release and immediate availability of the Origination Portal System, a new web portal that utilizes the connectivity of the Internet to extend the Diamond loan origination system's (LOS) product and pricing capabilities to reach external partners, like brokers and correspondents, as well as external employees. The Origination Portal System is fully integrated into the Diamond LOS.

"With the Origination Portal System, we're extending the industry's most comprehensive and powerful product and pricing engine into the broker and lender community," explains Reggie Swiney, president of mortgage products at ISGN. "Our client companies benefit from a faster, more efficient and economical way to do business, and their broker and correspondent lender partners benefit from the seamless transmission of accurate, up-to-the-minute data. With this highly anticipated solution, the power of the Diamond system becomes available to the partners of Diamond subscribers." He adds "This is the first of many product enhancements we will be announcing in 2009 as we work to enrich our products and exceed our customers' expectations."

The Origination Portal System functions as a self-service, private labeled portal that seamlessly connects outside partners with the Diamond client/subscriber, on an anytime, anywhere basis. Wholesale lenders can empower their brokers and correspondents with a fast, easy and seamless way to take care of interactive tasks like exchanging disclosure documents, ordering services and uploading imaged documents, without the hassle or unreliability of an outside software solution. Lenders can transmit information directly to their partners, and vice versa, directly from within the Diamond LOS, without picking up a phone, or sending an email or a fax.

The Diamond LOS is an end-to-end solution that handles every aspect of the loan origination process, from point-of-sale, product and pricing, to underwriting, secondary marketing, closing, and delivery, as well as post-closing, document tracking and delivery.
